

How to Upload Your Photos to the Great American Backyard Campout Flickr Group

1. Log in or create an account at www.flickr.com

Flickr allows you to sign in using a Yahoo, Google or Facebook ID. If you are creating a new account, follow Flickr's steps to create your ID and screen name and get started.

2. Upload Your Photos

- a. Go to www.flickr.com/upload and start by selecting Choose photos and videos.
- b. Continue following Flickr's three step process to select your photos, upload the images, and add a description and tags.

Visit www.flickr.com/tools for more information on uploading pictures using a desktop or mobile device.

3. Join the Great American Backyard Campout group.

Note: You must be a member of the group before you can share photos in the group pool.

- a. Go to www.flickr.com/groups and select Search for a group from the options underneath "Your groups".
- b. Search for "Great American Backyard Campout".
- c. You can click Join next to the group's name to join immediately.
Or get more information in the group description and group rules by clicking on the group name. Select the Join This Group option next to the group's name when you are ready.

4. Share Your Photos

- a. Once you have joined the group, you will see the Add photos option appear directly above the group pool.
- b. Click Add photos and select the photos that you would like to share from the Your Photostream window.
- c. When you are done selecting photos, click Add To Group.
- d. Check out your photos in the Group Pool!

Thank you for participating in the Great American Backyard Campout® and for sharing your adventure!
