Helpful Things to Take Along:

- ✓ Binoculars
- ✓ Camera

If you were a sloth, you'd live in a tree and come down to the ground just once a week or so. (For more about a sloth's life, see "Hanging with Sloths" on pages 22-27 in the February 2009 issue of Ranger Rick.) Take a walk and look at trees. Choose one to be your "home." Then imagine what it would be like to live there.

If you were hanging upside-down from a tree branch as a sloth does, how would you see the world?

Draw your sloth's-eye view in the box at right. Try binoculars or a camera to check out your treetop home.

Now write about your tree-week. What would you do? What would you see from up there? How would the world look different? What would night be like? Use the back of this page if you need more space to tell about your adventures.
