

Do you hunt the CMR?

"Surveys of the state's rod and gun clubs show Montanans look forward to hunting in two places: in and around the Charles M. Russell National Wildlife Refuge and somewhere close to home."
—Bill Geer,
Theodore Roosevelt
Conservation Partnership

Big game need big country.

They also need you to get involved because a new management plan for the CMR could enhance wildlife habitat within the Refuge. Comment today to:

- Preserve a unique hunt.
- Help protect some of Montana's most secure elk habitat.
- Join hunters, birdwatchers, solitude seekers and others in shaping the future of this incredible place.

The next generation of Montanans is counting on you.

Contact someone from one of the groups listed below to learn more about how to comment on a new management plan for the CMR.

Deadline: Dec. 10, 2010
